

THURSDAY SEPTEMBER 1. 1743.

Yesterday arriv'd a Mail from France.

Ausbourg, August 25.

HE Negotiations between the Austrian Generals and the Governors of Egra and Ingoldstadt are entirely broken off; so that they push'd the Siege of the last mention'd Fortrels; which, after all, is rather a Blockade than a Siege, or if you will, a Blockade and a Siege together, with the usual Vi-

our. In order to explain this, you must know, that the Austrians are only able to batter it at a Disadvantage, yet they have fallen upon another Method, which, in all probability, will quickly reduce the Place. There is a small River runs through Ingoldstadt, upon which all the Mills stand that supply the Town. This River they have undertaken to turn out of its usual Course, in order to distress the Besieged; and having an infinite Number of Hands to employ, they have effected it, which has occasion'd a great Scarcity. As to the Danube, which Strangers would imagine might answer the Purpose as well, it is so entirely commanded by the Austrian Batteries, that they can hardly draw Water from it in Safety. It is not easy to know of what Number the Garrison really consists; Deserters say there are not above 1200 Men. This is certain, that the Regular and Irregular Troops the Austrians have before the Place, amount to near 20,000. According to the last Advices from Munich, there has happen'd there an unexpected and total Revolution. The Count de Goes, Administrator for the Queen of Hungary, has fix'd the 18th of next Month for receiving the Oaths of Fidelity from the Nobility, Clergy, Citizens, and other Subjects of that Electorate. His Imperial Majesty's Arms have been pulled down from his own Palace, and those of the Queen of Hungary set up. Her Majesty's Administrator lodges there, and her Guards mount there, instead of those of the Emperor, which had hitherto done that Duty. Since this Change, all the Revenues of the Electorate have been destin'd to support Prince Charles's Army.

Frankfort, September 1. Baron Ginckel, General of Horse in the Dutch Service, pass'd this Morning through this City, in his Way to Menz. The Auxiliaries of his Nation, that is to say, the First Division of them, will not arrive in our Neighbourhood till after To-morrow; nor is it certainly known, where they will pass the Rhine. The Army of Prince Charles quitted its Camp at Muntzingen on the 18th, and march'd four Leagues lower to Mullen, in order to attempt the Passage of the Rhine there. But according to the last Advices we have receiv'd, which are dat'd the 29th, he has not pass'd. The two Armies of France are at present actually 30 Leagues asunder, so that it is simply impossible they should assist each other, if the Prince should pass. There arrive daily from Bavaria, such of his Imperial Majesty's Subjects as are determin'd not to take the Oath to the Queen of Hungary. There has lately appear'd here, a Paper conceived in very strong Terms, which pretends to demonstrate, that it is the Interest of the States of the Empire, to support his Imperial Majesty in his Rights and Dignity, even by Force of Arms.

Brussels, September 2. Yesterday the Co-Regency of the Duke of Tuscany was register'd in the Tribunals of this Province. The Duchess of Aremburg is return'd hither, and the Duke is gone to take upon him again the Command of the Austrian Troops in the Army of the Allies. It is thought, that a Council Royal, consisting of 12 Persons, will be form'd here; who will have the supreme Direction of all Affairs, at least, till the Arrival of Prince Charles of Lorraine, and, perhaps, under him afterwards. A large Convoy of Ammunition arriv'd within these two Days at Ostend, from England. We learn from Brussels, that 150 Soldiers of the new Regiment, in Garrison there, have desert'd in about three Days time.

Extra'd from the Paris Alman.

Paris, September 6. M. the Count de Eu, arriv'd here last Monday from the Army upon the Rhine. All the Militia throughout the Kingdom will be incorporated shortly into old Corps. The Militia of Donay having revolted lately, two of the Mutineers were hang'd up, to strike a Terror into the rest. The Duke de Biron march'd lately, with 15 Battalions, to the Army commanded by M. Coigny. Prince Charles of Lorraine has hang'd up several of the Peasants of Alsace, for having taken up Arms contrary to his Declaration, in which he enjoins them, not to take this Step.

Several Letters from Bourdeaux inform us, that some Gallies were arriv'd at Bayonne, having on board three Millions of Pieces of Eight, which amounts to 15 Millions of French Livres.

We are assur'd, that ten Sail of French, and eight of Spanish Men of War, are sail'd from Toulon; and having met with some English Ships at Sea, they saluted one another reciprocally with a few Cannon Shot.

Our Letters from Metz inform us, that they have completed the palisading at Thionville, and that M. la Count de Danois, who commanded there, had order'd the Place to be victual'd for a Year.

They have made Tris, at Verdun and Sedan, of their Sloices.

They write from Landau of the 30th, that we have drawn our Army nearer to that Place, in order to observe the Motions of the Allies, who arriv'd Yesterday at Worms, and are to march from thence To-morrow to Spire; where they are to wait for Prince Charles, in case he shall find it impossible to pass in the Higher Alsace.

The Dutch, who arriv'd the 30th of last Month at Luxemburg, are in full March for the Rhine; where they are to join the Allies. M. Noailles, who arriv'd here Yesterday, lies To-night at Offenbach, where that General has fix'd his Head Quarters.

Letters from Strassbourg of the same Date, acquaint us, that M. Coigny took, on the 29th, the Command of the Army of Count Saxe, who went immediately to serve in that of M. Noailles. The first mention'd General has assembled all his Troops, with a full Resolution to attack Prince Charles of Lorraine, if Occasion offers. That Prince was the other Day, at Balle, where he gave a grand Entertainment to the Ladies of the City, and danc'd with them all Night, returning early the next Morning to his Army.

They write from Chambery, that the Spaniards are in full March through the Brianconnois, in order to force a Passage that Way, through the Alps, having fail'd of doing it through the Valley of Aost.

All this was done with a View, as she supposed, to extort Money from the Complainer, tho' she had given him Three-pence for opening the Gate to her; the Magistrates, after taking Proof of the Affair, order'd Chisholm to be carried to Prison, to remain there for Thirty Days, and to pay the Fisk of Court 3 l. Sterling, and Forty Shillings Damages to the Complainer.

Whereas in the Gazette of the 14th of June last, there is an Account (dated from the Admiralty) of the late Expedition to the West Indies, which expresses, in general Terms, that at the Attack of the Batteries at Porto Cavalas, the whole Command behaved Ill. The Officers of Col. Lowther's Marines, on board the Suffolk and Burford, think it incumbent upon them to satisfy the World that they were not of that Number, and do declare, that they remained with their Platoons upon the Spot, till Col. Lucas, the Commanding Officer, gave his Orders for retreating. To testify which, he has given the following Certificate to the Captain of Marines on board the Burford.

These are to certify, That Capt. _____ of Col. Lowther's Regiment of Marines under my Command at the Attack of the Batteries at Punta Brava, on the Spanish Main, upon the 16th of April, 1743, behaved himself like an Officer, in assisting to rally the Men, and in every other Respect entirely to my satisfaction. No. 51047 and 22883, one a Prize of 5000 l. and the other of 10000 l. Which uncommon and continued Success, together with the Care and Fidelity there to be depended on, occasions an extraordinary Demand at that Office for Tickets, Shares, and Chances of Tickets, several People chusing, even who they happen to have already purchas'd at other Places, to register them with him. We hear that Schemes, adorn'd with a curious emblematical Frontispiece, are given gratis to his Customers.

THE Elements of ALGEBRA, in a
New and Easy Method, with their Use and Application, in the Solution of a great Variety of Arithmetical and Geometrical Questions, by General and Universal Rules. To which is prefix'd, An Introduction containing a succinct History of this Science.

By Mr. NATHANIEL HAMMOND, of the Bank.

Extract from the Account of this Book in the Works of the Learned.

'The World has long complained of the Want of a proper Introduction to Algebra. Some are so very concise, as if they were contrived not to teach but introduce a Teacher; others again are larger, but wrote with so little Condescension to the Understandings of such as are altogether unacquainted with the Science, that they are of very little Use to those who are most inclined to make use of them. Whence it comes to pass, that few find it practicable to make any Progress in Algebra without a Master, tho' certainly the Science in itself is far from surpassing a clear Head, and a tolerable Understanding.

'The Design of this Treatise, which is of a reasonable Bulk, and which contains nothing which is not solid, and to the Purpose, is to assist such as are engaged in teaching Algebra with a regular Method, and a large Stock of Examples; so that their Scholars may find Employment in their Absence; and to enable such as live in Country-Places, and must consequently want all other Tutors, except Books, to acquire such a Skill in this Science, as may enable them to spend a Portion of their Time agreeably in the Cultivation of their better Parts, and in rendering a natural Method of enquiring after Truth habitual.

'The Treatise begins with a copious Explication of the Fundamental Principles of the Art, and of the Signs and Method of Notation used therein. The Author then proceeds to the several Rules, explaining them carefully and copiously in all their various Cases; so that with a moderate Attention it is simply impossible for a Person, who desires to be Master of Algebra, to miss of his End.

'We never find this Writer advancing any thing out of its proper Place, or burthening the Mind of his Scholar with Rules, before they become necessary: He professes to have imitated the judicious Euclid in this Respect; and he has done it with equal Art and Felicity. By this means he has delivered the young Student in Algebra from that which is usually the most fatiguing Part of the Science, viz. The Doctrine of Surds, in the Manner in which it is usually taught. By the same Means he leads his Reader directly to Equations; and, by shewing him the Profit he will reap from this Science, encourages him to overcome all its Difficulties. But having thus laid a strong and rational Foundation, he moves more slowly through the rest of his Work, that whoever follows him, may be obliged to become Master of every Branch of the Art, so as to be a complete Algebraist, before he quits his Book, and not a Smatterer.

'Quadratic Equations, and the Art of managing Converging Series, the admirable Invention of the incomparable Newton, are here so clearly explained, and their several Cases so plainly set down, and so thoroughly explicated, that it may be truly said, there are no where else such Instructions to be met with. At the Close of the Book, we find abundance of Observations, necessary for enlightening such Minds as are willing to proceed still farther in analytic Discoveries; so that considering the Compass of this Work, and that too is very moderate, it is as complete as possibly can be expected: And he who is thoroughly versed in it, will find no great Difficulties, when he proceeds to sublimer Studies. The Language is plain and natural, the Book is more copious than any other in Examples, and the Illustrations of them are so full and clear, that it is impossible to mistake their Meaning.
